

Macroeconomic Context

Angolan oil production for the month of April saw a reduction of 10.24%, the main cause of this drop was the stoppage of the FPSO Dália for maintenance. The average price of a barrel stood at 87.94 usd, the war in Ukraine and the resumption of economic activity in China after Covid-19 restrictions boosted demand for oil.

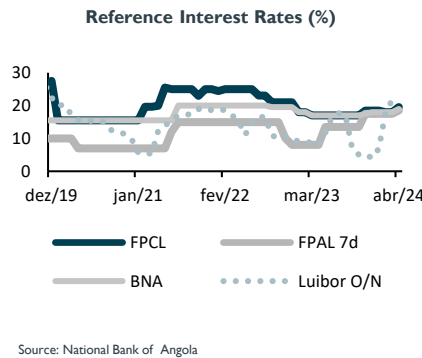

Inflation

The inflation rate in Angola in April reached 28.20%, which represented an increase of 0.07% compared to the previous month. Year-on-year, it increased by 1.69%, under the influence of increases in the Health class, where prices registered a variation of 3.25%.

Politics and Money Market

Since the last meeting of the BNA Monetary Policy Committee held in January 2024, the Liquidity Provision Facility and Permanent Liquidity Absorption Facility rates have maintained a decreasing trend, standing at 18.5% and 17.5% and an increase in mandatory reserves in national currency was dictated to 20%.

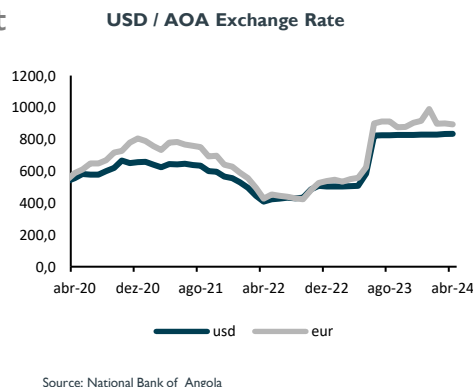

Capital Market

The stock market had a positive performance in April, appreciating 2.85% compared to the previous month. This increase was mainly driven by greater investor interest in shares in the financial sector, which has contributed positively to market developments. The market did not register new issues of treasury bonds.

Foreign Exchange Market

The Angolan foreign exchange market recorded a mixed performance in April 2024, marked by an appreciation of the kwanza against the euro and a depreciation against the US dollar. The average exchange rate for the month was AOA 892.6 per euro and AOA 834.060 per US dollar.

Investment objective

The reported returns represent past data and do not constitute a guarantee of future returns. The disclosed returns would only be obtained if the investment were made and maintained throughout the reference period. For the purpose of calculating returns, subscription, redemption and transfer fees are not taken into account, when applicable, being net of all other fees and charges. The Synthetic Risk and Reward Indicator measures the risk of price variation of the Fund's units, based on the volatility verified in the last 5 years and classifies the Fund's risk level between 1 (minimum risk) and 6 (maximum risk). Lower risk potentially implies lower reward and higher risk potentially implies higher reward. Investment in funds may imply the loss of invested capital if the fund does not have guaranteed capital. Benchmark – the criteria used are the average rate for Time Deposits of up to 90 days and between 90 and 181 days (Effective rate, net of taxes – IAC), available for consultation at the National Bank of Angola. The TxR YTD (Year to Date) is the rate of return (annualized) calculated from the first day of the annual calendar to the moment to which it refers; the TxR 12M is the rate of return for the last 12 months of the Fund (tax free, as defined in the Fiscal Regime of UCIs).
